Fee comparison based on a $50,000 super balance

Fee comparison based on a $50,000 MySuper balance

Fee comparison based on $250,000 pension balance

DETAILED GRAPH ASSUMPTIONS

This analysis is based on research conducted by SuperRatings Pty Ltd, holder of Australian Financial Services Licence No. 311880 at the request of ANZ, and is current as at 31 December 2017.

Selected Funds

The analysis is restricted to 382 super funds (including 100 MySuper funds) and 165 pension funds across retail, industry, corporate and government funds – representing the SuperRatings database. 'Retail funds' are publicly available super funds run for profit by financial institutions such as banks or investment companies. 'Industry funds' are typically not-for-profit funds, most of which are also publicly available. 'Corporate funds' are company superannuation funds sponsored by a single employer or group of usually related employers for the benefit of company employees. 'Government funds' are superannuation entities where the sponsoring employer is a government agency or a business enterprise that is majority government-owned. 'Australian funds' includes all retail, industry, corporate and government funds in the SuperRatings database. These products represent Australia's largest superannuation funds.

Selected Investment Options

In conducting the fees analysis for both super and pension, the ANZ Smart Choice 1960s investment option has been compared against SuperRatings' 'rated options'. A 'rated option' is generally a fund's Balanced option, where 60% to 76% of the strategic asset allocation is within growth investments. For the majority of funds, this option will also be their default option. Where a fund does not have a Balanced option, or does not meet the 'rated option' criteria, generally the option closest to this benchmark is used.

Balance

The fees analysis is based on a constant balance of $50,000 for super, and $250,000 for pension over a full year.

Fees

All fees included in the analysis are as published in the Selected Funds' most recent publicly available Product Disclosure Statement at the date of fee assessment. The analysis is not guaranteed to be accurate or complete. Average super and pension fees are an average (mean) of chargeable member, administration, asset management, investment management and performance fees from the list of selected funds. All fees included in the analysis are as at the date quoted, based on the most recent publicly available data. Contribution fees, entry fees, exit fees, additional adviser fees or any other fees charged are excluded from the analysis.
